Nationality Law To Committee

Dr. Mossadeq is in Cairo on his way home. He will remain there a few days as the guest of the Government. But not to talk about a common front against Great Britain. What would be the use? The Persians are running short of cash as it is and have nothing to spare for common fronts and nothing to hope for from Egypt, which is making political coin out of her campaign against Britain but losing money on it heavily. Besides, it must be hard for Nahas Pasha to know where Dr. Mossadeq stands with the Persians. He has been to rich, all-powerful America and is coming back without gifts or promise of help. He had his day at U.N. but it was only a day and has led nowhere. The Persians, down to 35 million sterling in foreign currency—having sold 9 millions on the black market to Persians wanting to go abroad or salt their treasure away in foreign banks—and with no money to pay the pensions of officials sacked for economy's sake because the Government has spent the superannuation fund subscribed by the workers themselves, may have no use for Dr. Mossadeq.

IN the market-places of Tehran and Cairo and in the London and New York newspapers it is being said that the Shah wants the henna-haired, rich, unscrupulous, but forceful Ahmed Ghaem-Sultanah back again as the head of Government; and because of the Tudeh upsurge, which Mossadeq may be too weak to stop, the big families and the Majlis are said to be coming round to the Shah's way of thinking. The market-place and the Anglo-Saxon newspapers may be wrong, of course. But while there is a chance of Ghaem-Sultanah's return, the Anglo-Iranian and the British Government are not likely to make concessions to Mossadeq. He was ready last week to negotiate on the basis of Persian control of production and the sale at a discount of most of the oil to Britain, who would control its marketing throughout the world. But he would not go below a discount of fifteen per cent while the Company was reported to be insisting upon a discount of somewhere between forty and fifty per cent.

IT is hard to know what to think or where to put the blame. One is restricted in considerations of this kind of dispute by the simplicity of our modern values—Right, Left, West, East, and the long, arid, serpent-ridden desert of fellow-travellers, Bevanites, Neutralists and what-not of horrible political fauna, in between. Starting out from the simplified values there is the fact that the Tudeh Party are getting stronger and stronger and bolder and bolder, and that their friends, the Russians, have offered a $75 million trade pact and 80,000 tons of sugar a month and are saying that a nine-inch pipeline along the railway would dodge the mountains and be easy to put down and could carry millions of tons of oil from Abadan to the Caspian ports; more market-places chatter one guesses, like the notion that Russia has offered to dismantle Abadan and put it up again on the Caspian, there to refine Persia's northern oil as well as some of the Soviet's own.

BETWEEN the bogey of wicked Western Imperialism and the bogey of wicked Soviet Communism where do Dr. Mossadeq and his wretched Persian stand? He has not gained in stature from his visit to the Prime Minister of Egypt and will be a shrunken figure altogether when he comes again into Tehran, to find no money, precious little oil and, doubtless, a Soviet leaf he will not dare to swallow, hungry as he may be. That, perhaps, will be Ghaem's chance.

Tel Aviv, November 21.

The proposed Nationality Act passed its first reading in the Knesset yesterday and was sent for final drafting to the Interior and Legislation Committees. When passed, the law will give citizenship automatically to all residents who were Palestinian citizens before the War of Liberation and were included in the National Register on March 1, 1951 (when registration for the last Knesset elections closed) and to all those who have arrived in the country or will come in future under the Law of the Return adopted in July, 1950, by the First Knesset to accord the right to every Jew to enter Israel.

Others may obtain citizenship through naturalization, the conditions for which are laid down in the draft law. The bill also provides for the acquisition of citizenship by birth, adoption or marriage. This was the second time the Government introduced a draft Nationality Act in the Knesset. A similar bill passed its first reading in the First Knesset 16 months ago but died in committee when the Knesset was dissolved. The new version of the bill was more liberal than the first in that it accorded automatic citizenship only to those who had been counted in the census of 1949.

Central Issues. The general debate yesterday centered upon two issues: 1. The draft proposal said that acquisition of Israeli citizenship does not require the surrender of previous nationality, but most speakers in the debate were opposed to the principle of dual-nationality. 2. Mapam and Communist members asked for a more liberal attitude to the minorities which would in effect accord automatic citizenship to all Arabs resident in the country on the day the Nationality Act becomes law, without regard to their previous nationality.

The debate on dual nationality cut across party lines, and the principle was attacked by speakers for Mapai, the General Zionists, Mapam, religious parties and the Communists. It was defended by the Minister of Interior, Mr. Moshe Shapira, who introduced the bill, as well as by Mr. Yaakov Shapira (Mapai) and Mr. Ishar Harari (Progressive). They indicated that for the time being it was necessary to permit Israelis to retain foreign nationality, because in many cases people had property in their countries of origin which they wanted to liquidate and transfer to Israel. The two Messrs. Shapira in particular indicated that they did not expect

Israel Delegation Examines Speculation on M.E. Pact

The Israel delegation to the U.N. General Assembly yesterday examined a statement on recent speculation regarding Israel's position on the proposed Middle Eastern pact, as follows:

Recent speculations on Israel's position with regard to the proposed Middle Eastern pact, attributed on the one hand to Western statesmen, and on the other to Israel diplomatic sources, call for close examination.

Statements have been attributed to an official Western spokesman that Israel is ready and willing to enter into a Middle East defence alliance with the Western powers and Turkey, under certain definite conditions. At the same time, Israel leaders were reported as indicating that Israel is in no hurry to join the same projected Middle East pact.

The same reports speak of an arrangement between Israel and the Western powers and Turkey, with regard to Israel's military potential and availability of bases on Israel territory, also that Israel expressed the desire that this arrangement be kept from the public. Nothing is known to Israel about the existence of such an arrangement, therefore.

U.N. Debate On Disarmament Adjourned

PARIS, Tuesday (AP). — British and Russian jockeying for the star speaking position forced a suspension of the debate on Western disarmament proposals in the U.N. Political Committee today.

Both the British Minister of State, Mr. Selwyn Lloyd, and the Soviet Foreign Minister, M. Andrei Y. Vyshinsky, want to speak last in the discussion which was opened yesterday by the U.S. Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Acheson.

A British spokesman also said he believed that the "very profound impression" created in the 60-member Committee by Mr. Acheson made M. Vyshinsky hesitate to answer too quickly. According to this view, the Russians do not want to appear before the world as spurning the Western plan without considerable thought.

Despite pleas from the Chairman, Mr. Finn Moe of Norway, for speakers, the Committee adjourned until tomorrow after brief speeches by Brazil, Peru, Haiti and Persia asking the Big Powers to compose their differences in order to reduce the burden of armaments on the world.

Greek Optimism. The U.N. Special Political Committee, set up to handle the overflow of work from the regular Political Committee, heard an optimistic report today on the situation in Greece. The Greek delegate, M. Piliotis, told the group his country's fight to put down Communist guerrillas has been successful and asked the U.N. to end the six-year old Special Committee on the Balkans (UNSCOB) which has been keeping an eye on the situation.

Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb said the Committee's success was an example of "work well done," and he was pleased that it was "now no longer necessary." Britain, the U.S., France, Greece and Mexico, however, asked the Committee to set up a new sub-committee of the U.N. peace officers, which would be based on the situation at U.N. Headquarters in New York. UNSCOB would be expected to be interrupted on Friday for a primary session, at which three members of the Security Council will be elected.

Chile and Pakistan are believed sure of election, but support is expected between Greece, supported by the U.S., and a candidate from the Soviet bloc.

Sharett Talks With Acheson

PARIS, Tuesday (INA). — The Israel Foreign Minister, Mr. Moshe Sharett, met Mr. Dean Acheson, the U.S. Secretary of State, yesterday and discussed matters of mutual interest to the two countries.

No statement was issued after the meeting which was held at the Hotel Astoria. UP reports from Washington that Israel's possible role in Middle Eastern defence was discussed at yesterday's meeting.

The report states that Israel has notified the U.S. of its misgivings about S.A.C.E. It has not rejected the idea flatly, but suggested that the proposal will not work as long as the Arabs and Israelis are at war and the Middle East remains militarily weak.

Ben Gurion Reports On Assembly Stand

The Acting Minister of Foreign Affairs, Mr. Ben Gurion, answered questions in the Foreign Affairs and Security Committee yesterday about Israel's stand in the United Nations General Assembly.

Earlier, Mr. Walter Eytan, Director General of the Foreign Ministry, addressed the committee on the issues facing the Assembly.

The discussion was adjourned until next week.

Mixed Team Visits Scene of Ambush

One Israel soldier was killed and two were wounded on Monday in a road-side ambush of a routine Israel patrol by Arabs near Dawasima, between Bet Guvrin and Beersheva, an Army spokesman stated yesterday. It was erroneously reported yesterday that two soldiers had been killed in the ambush by Arab Legion forces.

An urgent complaint on the incident was filed with the Israel-Jordan M.A.C. and a mixed team visited the scene of the ambush yesterday. The incident will be discussed tomorrow at an extraordinary meeting of the M.A.C.

The Senior Israel and Jordan delegates met for 2 1/2 hours yesterday in the presence of Col. B. De Ridder, M.A.C. Chairman, and discussed "the situation resulting from the Arab Legion attack as well as general measures to be taken against infiltration and pillage."

They also discussed problems connected with the Jerusalem area and with damage that has been done to the demarcation of borders. Arrangements were made for the resumption of agricultural work in the Latrun no-man's land, and work will begin within two days.

M.A.C. members met at Latrun to complete the preparations. Six infiltrators were killed in the past two days in the Northern and Central districts, the Army spokesman also disclosed yesterday. One was killed while he and two others attempted to enter a Jewish settlement in the South. One of the accomplices was wounded.

Seven infiltrators were detained in the past two days in various sections of the country.

Kenya Labour Force To Work in Suez

KENYA, Nairobi (UP). — Kenya will raise volunteer labour battalions for the Suez Canal Zone to ease the manpower shortage caused by the resignations and intimidation of Egyptian workers, the government announced here today.

The force will be called the East Africa Pioneer Corps and may eventually total several thousand men from Kenya and Uganda. It will be led by European former officers and N.C.O.s.

Truce Reached In Ismailia

CAIRO, Tuesday. — British women and children began leaving the "unsafe area" of Ismailia today after British and Egyptian authorities agreed today that they had agreed to a seven-day "truce" after which British troops are to evacuate the city.

General Sir George Erskine, Commander of British troops in Egypt, and Abdul Hadi Ghazali, Governor of the Canal Zone, met yesterday at Perdan Bridge, seven miles north of Ismailia. It was learned today that they had agreed to the Egyptian reserve police force, which exchanged fire with British troops on Sunday, would stay inside their quarters for seven days.

During this period all British women and children are to be evacuated from the city, and at the end of it British troops are to evacuate Ismailia entirely. Later, a British spokesman here announced that the Egyptian police in Ismailia were now carrying staves instead of firearms, and were maintaining order together with British troops.

Ambassador's Trip

This afternoon, the British Ambassador here, Sir Ralph Stevenson, drove to the Canal Zone for consultations with British military leaders in connection with the "wide political repercussions" of the recent fighting in Ismailia. An Embassy spokesman said the Ambassador would certainly meet General Erskine, but declined widespread reports that he would criticize the latter's action in "occupying" Ismailia. The Ambassador travelled in a six-car convoy under armed Egyptian police guard.

In Ismailia today six coffins wrapped in the green Egyptian flag were carried out of the city in a procession which had assembled to bury those killed in the clashes with British troops on Sunday.

As the procession passed silently through British residential quarters, British troops lay on the ground behind sand bags training machine guns at the massive line of marchers. (AP, UP)

Sudan Plebiscite 'Impracticable'

KHARTOUM, Tuesday (Reuters). — The Sudan Government yesterday said that the Egyptian proposal to hold a plebiscite on the future of the Sudan was "completely impracticable."

It added, however, that they were willing "at the right time" to consider any method for obtaining a valid expression of Sudanese opinion.

Mossadeq Meets Nahas Pasha

CAIRO, Tuesday (AP). — The Middle East's two Anglophone Prime Ministers—Mohammed Mossadeq of Iran and Nahas Pasha of Egypt—met dramatically for the first time today in Cairo's famous Shepherd's Hotel.

Nahas Pasha called on his visitor shortly after Mossadeq's arrival. The two embraced and kissed. They were closeted together for 30 minutes. Outside the hotel, Egyptian crowds cheered Mossadeq as an "enemy of the British" and "hero of the revolution."

Mossadeq was received in audience by King Farouk this afternoon. Crowds lined the streets to the Royal Kubbah Palace, cheering the Persian Premier.

Turkish Plane Crashes Near Cairo; 16 Dead CAIRO, Tuesday (UP). — Sixteen people were killed in a Turkish Airways plane which crashed in the desert Monday night near the city's Farouk airport.

The crash occurred in the sand dunes, about 10 miles from the airport. The plane was a regularly scheduled craft coming from Beirut and due to arrive here this evening.

Communists Indicate U.N. Plan Acceptable

Both Sides Claim Favourable Radio Broadcast War Atrocities

TOKYO, Tuesday. — General Matthew Ridgway announced tonight that 385 Americans died in Korea from Communist atrocities and there was incomplete evidence that the figure may be as high as 6,000.

Meanwhile, Peking Radio, heard in Tokyo, counter-charged that the U.N. were using Communist prisoners from Korea and Indo-China as human "guinea pigs" in atomic bomb tests in America.

A special announcement by Gen. Ridgway said: "There is no conclusive proof as to the number of dead, though there is considerable evidence to justify a presumption of death by atrocity of a large number, which may approximate 6,000. Headquarters stated that 10,838 Americans were still listed as missing in action."

The statement released by Gen. Ridgway's headquarters heavily qualified the sensational charges of Communist war crimes issued last week by the 8th Army's Col. James M. Hanley. It did not, however, rule out the possibility that Col. Hanley was correct in charging that Communist forces killed more than 13,000 U.N. troops that had fallen into their hands.

Peking Radio's atrocity charge was coupled with the admission that "some Allied prisoners have died in Communist camps because of disease." In speaking of the alleged use of Communist soldiers for atomic experiments, the radio said they were taken away in a British ship, "for the purpose of human experiments" and "U.S. and British aggression must be held fully responsible."

The broadcast said Col. Hanley's charge was an "absurd lie" and detailed general Communist treatment of war prisoners. (Reuters, UP)

Pleven Wins Vote Of Confidence

PARIS, Tuesday (AP). — Premier Rene Pleven won a vote of confidence by a narrow margin in the French Chamber tonight, on a programme of austerity to be able to bear the burdens of full partnership in Western defence.

Against him voted the Gaullists, Communists and a few others. The Socialists abstained, while the M.R.P. and the Conservative groups voted for him.

Eden Rejects Churchill And Bevin Schools of Diplomacy

By A. V. Sherman, POST Correspondent

LONDON, Tuesday. — Mr. Anthony Eden's speech in the House of Commons yesterday was more significant in establishing his personal ascendancy than in outlining new policies. His rejection of the "get tough" school of diplomacy and of broad, general discussions or a sudden, spectacular move to ease East-West tension can be interpreted only as tacit condemnation of the Bevin school and of Mr. Churchill's personal diplomacy.

Mr. Eden returned to the theme of limited diplomacy several times, notably in the beginning, when he said the East and West could "discuss and seek to solve some specific topic which today divides us," and at the end, when he suggested to "build up our reputation for patient and sane counsel and to use the diplomatic experience of centuries which is our heritage, to guide the nations and to guard the peace."

The speech seemed to be voicing the warnings of the Foreign Office and Mr. Eden himself to Mr. Churchill. The only new matter introduced was the explanation that an agreement on armistice terms, including the question of prisoners, must definitely precede a cease-fire in Korea, and the foreboding of full equality for Germany.

On both issues he appeared notably defending policies originated elsewhere, and public disquiet was voiced both by a "Manchester Guardian" editorial and in general terms by Mr. Herbert Morrison. The latter expressed the Opposition's support for government policy, but warned against taking for granted the excessive one-sidedness in Anglo-American relations, which could cause anti-Americanism.

Israel Avoided Mr. Eden twice stressed the hope that the Arab states would accept the offer to join a Middle East defence organization, and therefore avoided all mention of a possible special role to be played by Israel.

A Conservative M.P., Mr. Legh-Booth, asked that the Arabs be reassured against Israel expansionism. Mr. Legh-Booth asked for Lord Kilmer back at the Cairo Embassy. There was no promise for Israel's special role as a second Turkey.

In far the outcome of the debate, Eden's exhausted status of Mr. Eden, is continued in partnership in foreign affairs but no policy comes of it.

Labour Says 'No A Bomb in Korea'

LONDON, Tuesday (UP). — Left-wing Labour M.P.'s today pressed Premier Churchill to demand from the U.S. a guarantee that atomic weapons would not be used in Korea without Britain's consent.

The matter was raised by Mrs. Barbara Castle, although Mr. Churchill tried to shut it aside, when the House resumed its foreign affairs debate. The Foreign Secretary, Mr. Eden, told Mrs. Castle that arrangements for the use of the atom bomb had not been changed since the Korean war started and were the same as under the Labour Government.

Mrs. Castle referred to "the dangerous mood which is operating in the U.S. as a result of unsubstantiated atrocity stories."

The Secretary of War stated that Britain had no information that British prisoners in Korea had been massacred, despite the report issued by U.S. officers.

The Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Anthony Nutting, resumed the debate with statements on the Middle East.

Regretting Egypt's refusal to join S.A.C.E., he stated that Britain had no wish to interfere in Middle Eastern internal affairs, but the Arabs could not defend itself without outside help. He hoped that Middle Eastern states would understand the plan and not be held back by "needless fears" about sovereignty.

Earlier, Prime Minister Churchill bowed to his Labour critics over his proposal to hold a secret parliamentary session on defence. He told the House of Commons he would not press for a secret session if there was considerable opposition to the proposal.

Several Labour lawyers have sought to prove it is legally impossible to stop newspapers publishing anything that might leak out.

Mr. Churchill added today that, if at any future time a secret session should become necessary, members would be aware that any disclosures would be a breach of Parliamentary privilege.

Britain to Request Share in U.S. Aid

LONDON, Tuesday (Reuters). — Britain revealed today that she has told the U.S. she wants a share of financial aid under the new American Mutual Security Act.

SENTENCED IN ABSENTIA
A special Arab Legion military court in Amman has sentenced to death, in absentia, Aspiro Wadia, one of the men who on July 13 assassinated Riaz el-Solh, former Lebanese Premier.

The sentence is to be confirmed by King Talal.

The court's action brings down the curtain on investigations into the assassination. Of the three other men who participated, two were killed on the spot and the third died later in hospital, Aspiro Wadia escaped.
